“Could it not be that you are fainthearted, because your love is so small?”

You will not lack the grace of God. Therefore, if you respond to it, you will be sure to win. Victory depends on you: your strength and drive -- together with that grace -- are reason enough for you to have the optimism of one who knows victory is assured. (Furrow, 80)

June 6

Don't be narrow-minded men or women who are immature, short-sighted and incapable of embracing our supernatural Christian outlook as children of God. God and daring! (Furrow, 96)

Daring is not imprudence, or unreflective bravado, or simple pluck. Daring is fortitude, a cardinal virtue, a requirement of the soul's life. (Furrow, 97)

I read a proverb which is very popular in some countries: ``God owns the world, but he rents it out to the brave'', and it made me think. What are you waiting for? (Furrow, 99)

I am not the apostle I should be. I am ... too timid. Could it not be that you are fainthearted, because your love is so small? It is time to change! (Furrow, 100)

---

pdf | document generated automatically from https://opusdei.org/en/dailytext/could-it-not-be-that-you-are-fainthearted-because/ (12/12/2025)