

opusdei.org

How is the prelature of Opus Dei governed? Who directs it?

Like any prelature, the government of Opus Dei is the responsibility of its prelate and his vicars, who are assisted by councils made up of other faithful, many of them lay persons, both men and women. The lay faithful also play a decisive role in the organizational tasks and in the formational activity of Opus Dei.

11/27/2007

Like any prelature, the government of Opus Dei is the responsibility of its prelate and his vicars, who are assisted by councils made up of other faithful, many of them lay persons, both men and women. The lay faithful also play a decisive role in the organizational tasks and in the formational activity of Opus Dei.

pdf | document generated
automatically from [https://opusdei.org/
en-nz/article/how-is-the-prelature-of-opus-dei-governed-who-directs-it/](https://opusdei.org/en-nz/article/how-is-the-prelature-of-opus-dei-governed-who-directs-it/) (07/27/2025)