Some time ago, we decided to change part of the floor of the house. When the workers went to collect the new wood we had chosen, they found that the batch that was available had already been sold. We were told we had to choose another type and model, and found nothing of the quality, color and texture we wanted. That is, we could either accept something completely opposite to what we wanted or we could wait to do the job later when the right kind of floor appeared. This was less-than-ideal, because we had already moved furniture, emptied closets and upended the affected areas.

We decided to ask Dora for help and we started to pray for this intention. Half an hour didn't even go by when we called saying they had found what we wanted. During the floorwork, there were other little difficulties that Dora also helped solve.

Thank you, Dora.
