

Finding God in and through my family

Opus Dei arrived in Ireland 75 years ago, when a young Spanish engineer stepped off the ferry at Dun Laoghaire port, just outside Dublin City, to begin Opus Dei activities in Ireland. This is the first of a series of interviews commemorating the 75th anniversary.

In our first episode, Siobhan shares with us her experience of being a mother and wife. Even amid the chaos of small children, God's mercy and love is present.

This is the first of a series of six interviews from men and women across Ireland who wish to share how Opus Dei has positively influenced their lives.
