Information Evenings in London

On Friday 19 May 2006 the Da Vinci Code film was launched. This has created a lot of interest in Opus Dei. On Thursday 1 June there will be an information session in a centre of Opus Dei in London, starting at 7pm.

Interest in Opus Dei in Britain has been sparked by high sales of the Da Vinci Code, a work of fiction that makes serious allegations about the

This interest will only increase with the forthcoming film.

You can find information about the real Opus Dei, its mission and activities in other sections of this website, including testimonies from different members around the world. For a summary of what Opus Dei is and how people join press the link below:
