I realized that by doing things well I could help society.

And when I began to work well, I realized I wasn't only working well but I also began to love more, love my wife and children more and understand them, because if I do one thing well, I have to do everything well.

So like that, St Josemaria had a big influence on me.

Those little details, added together, make up your whole life.

Because big things don't happen every day, but we have to love coming to work, because we do that every day.

We have to give our wives a kiss when we get home every day. And if we don't give her a kiss, it means something's going wrong.
